

Adult Protective Services

What are adult protective services?

Adult protective services help vulnerable adults age 60 and older who are in danger of harm, are unable to protect themselves, and may have no one to assist them. The Ohio Department of Job and Family Services (ODJFS) supervises the state's Adult Protective Services program. ODJFS plans and develops programs and writes rules and regulations pertaining to adult protective services. The county departments of job and family services receive and investigate reports of abuse, neglect, and exploitation of vulnerable adults and evaluate the need for protective services. County departments receive guidance from ODJFS.

What types of things are considered abuse?

The most common types of elder abuse reported in Ohio are neglect, self-neglect, exploitation, and emotional, physical, and sexual abuse.

- Neglect is the failure of an adult to provide the goods or services necessary for his or her own safety and/or well-being – such as avoiding physical harm, mental anguish, or mental illness – or the failure of a caretaker to provide such goods or services.
- Exploitation is the unlawful or improper act of a caretaker using an adult or his/her resources for monetary or personal benefit, profit, or gain.
- Physical abuse is the intentional use of physical force that results in injury, pain, or impairment. It includes pushing, hitting, slapping, pinching, and other ways of physically harming a person. It can also mean placing an individual in incorrect positions, force feeding, restraining, or giving medication without the person's knowledge.
- Emotional abuse occurs when a person is threatened, humiliated, intimidated, or otherwise psychologically hurt. It includes the violation of an adult's right to make decisions and the loss of his or her privacy.
- Sexual abuse includes rape or other unwanted, nonconsensual sexual contact. It also can mean forced or coerced nudity, exhibitionism, and other non-touching sexual situations, regardless of the age of the perpetrator.
